Why pay BT £10.50

a month for telephone line rental when it's already part of the ntl:home service?

Every month you're probably handing BT £10.50 for telephone line rental. That adds up to £126 a year. And it's money you don't need to spend.

That's because the cable TV service you currently get with ntl:home includes line rental for our own telephone service. So, switch your phone to us and you could be making an immediate saving. Plus you get:

- National calls at local rates. So whether you're phoning the other end of the street or the other end of the country you'll pay the same for your call.*
- Low cost international calls to 30 destinations from just 5p per minute with our International Call Plan (which costs just £2 per month).
- Free cable to cable talk time to other ntl:home phone customers in your local area. 6pm to 8am weekdays and all weekend. All you pay is the 4.9p connection charge.†

All calls are subject to a 4.9p connection charge.

It's easy to switch and save

It's easy to switch to the ntl:home Telephone service. There's a one-off installation fee of £50 to connect your phone to your cable line. And for £20, in certain areas, we can even transfer your existing BT number to us. But remember you can recoup that money in just a few months.

The most memorable music is highlighted in Sky One's new series Pop Years

Each month Cable Guide's Brian Viner reviews what's new and happening with the stars

This month, Martin Kemp presents VH1's 100 Greatest Men in Music spectacular, which considers, in the customary reverse order, the 100 men who have made the greatest contribution to music over the last 50-odd years. It is perhaps doubtful whether he will himself figure, but as the bass player for his brother Gary's band, Spandau Ballet, he certainly made a lasting contribution to the New Romantic scene of the 1980s.

He is better known now, of course, as an actor; indeed he has crammed a lot of living into his 40 years, and for three of them living itself became his overwhelming priority. In February 1995 Kemp was diagnosed with a brain tumour, and was operated on four times before being given a clean bill of health. During his illness he acquired a perspective on life that he is happy to have shed, he says. 'I remember watching the Oscar ceremony and thinking, "What a pile of crap, all those people clapping each other when there are far more important things". But now I'm back to real life I'd give anything for an Oscar.'

He's not in the running just yet, but perhaps we shouldn't rule it out. After all, while he was playing True in front of 20,000 fans in the mid-Eighties, who'd have thought that he'd wind up propping up the bar at the Queen Vic? That it did come to pass is partly down to George Michael, a fan of EastEnders, who suggested to Michelle Collins, in her Cindy Beale days, that Kemp would be an asset to the show. And for Kemp, whose triumphant four-year stint playing murderous nightclub owner Steve Owen has just come to a close, acting beats being in Spandau Ballet hands down. 'In Spandau I was standing at the back of the band playing my brother's songs, but now I'm my own man, making my own mistakes.'

Island life

Charlotte Hobrough is taking a five-year career-break from the police force. She can afford to. When she left the inhospitable island of Pulau Tiga, off the coast of Borneo, last year, she was richer to the tune of a million pounds. That was her prize for winning Survivor, the hugely addictive endurance show on which she has now returned as a presenter.

When, I ask her, did she reach her lowest ebb on the island? 'Probably on my birthday, on 24 March last year,' she answers. 'I kept thinking about the sort of birthday I'd be having at home, and I just stood on a log for about six hours. I thought, "I'm 25 today, and I'm standing on a log." And it was boiling hot, 110 degrees at six o'clock in the morning, although saying that, I have never, ever been so cold as after a storm which washed half our camp away.'

'And I was starving all the time. I had a strange craving for peanut butter and banana sandwiches.'

There must now, I venture, be a lot of peanut butter in her fridge. And I bet it's a flashy state-of-the-art fridge, too.

'Yes, I bought a house, with a Jacuzzi,' she says. 'It's next to the sea near Cardiff and I want to buy a jet-ski next. I bought a Porsche too, and I've given a certain amount of money to my family.'

'Winning Survivor has changed my life. Best of all, it has taken away the worry.'

So does she think she will actually return to her job as a policewoman when her career-break is up? 'I might,' she replies. Perhaps she could start a jet-ski patrol in Cardiff Bay.

Ghoul Britannia

Yvette Fielding lives with her husband and children in a 17th-century former farmhouse in Cheshire. So far, a normal enough scenario. But it is haunted, she says, by a man and a woman, who come and go through the cupboard under the stairs. A medium has told her that although the couple are full of antipathy towards each other, the female ghost in particular is very protective towards Fielding's children. So that's all right, then.

Fielding, 33, never had all that much time for ghost stories. 'Like a lot of people, I used to sit on the fence,' she says. But then she produced (with her husband, Karl Beattie) and presented Most Haunted, a series of 16 programmes (launching as part of LivingTV's Paranormal Weekend) investigating the spookiest buildings in Britain.

'And every one of them was terrifying to make,' she says. 'At a priory in Eastbourne we had a chair move on its own, and something pinched my bottom.' Maybe that's why it's best to sit on the fence, I venture, so nothing can get at your bottom. But Fielding clearly doesn't consider it a joking matter.

'At Culzean Castle in Scotland we saw a strange light, which moved in a kind of human way,' she adds. 'At Drury Lane Theatre in London we saw a man's legs from the knees down. And at Derby Jail there was a cross, which moved on its own. Ever since we recorded the series I've had to sleep with the lights on. Our ghosts seem to have calmed down now, but if my husband's away I still have to get a member of the family to stay over.' Most Haunted, LivingTV, from Saturday 25th, see listings for times

Tristan takes off

May is Australia month on the Travel Channel, and one of our guides round the Antipodes is Tristan Banks. You might remember him from Home and Away, in which he played Tug, the angry young man. In real life, 27-year-old Banks is not even a faintly irascible young man, although he concedes that the part of Tug 'was a useful release for a lot of rage bottled up in trying to be a nice guy all the time'.

The Travel Channel show Travel Bug, he says, enabled him to explore his native continent thoroughly for the first time. 'Like most Australians, I had always stuck to the coast. Hardly any Australians have been to Ayer's Rock. But I'd been told all my life that the Outback is the real Australia, and finally I got to see it.'

He also got to swim with sharks, near the Great Barrier Reef. It was, he reports, an alarming experience. 'The guy told me not to worry. He said, "They're only reef sharks, they don't bite." And then he said, "But watch out for that blue fish, he doesn't like people very much."'

Mercifully, Banks made it home in one piece. Home is Byron Bay, on the northern coast of New South Wales, near the border with Queensland. 'It is very popular with backpackers; there are 10,000 Brits here at the moment,' he tells me. He in turn has backpacked through Europe, and lived in London for four years on and off. 'I thought Newquay in Cornwall was pretty cool - that was the most like Australia that I saw Britain get,' he says. 'But I did miss Australia. I love the openness of Australia, in the people as well as the landscape. In Europe the sky only seems to be five feet over your head.'

'I could never have a boyfriend who wasn't into bikes'

Super (bike) woman

Louise Brady's dream motorbike is an MV Augusta F4. Frankly, she could have told me it was a Zanussi WJS 1665W - which is, in fact, a combined washing machine and tumble dryer - and I would still have nodded solemnly and asked whether she had ever ridden one. Bikes are not my thing. Yet it is impossible not to be infected by Brady's enthusiasm. The 29-year-old is not just a pretty face, she is also the new face of British Eurosport's World Superbike coverage, and has been a bike nut since she was a kid.

'I come from an ex-mining village in Derbyshire called South Normanton,' she tells me. 'Our next-door neighbour was a Grand Prix racer, John Newbold, so from the age of six I went to every British Grand Prix with my mum and dad and sister, and I loved it. Other kids at school thought it was weird, but for me it was quite normal to have a cup of tea with Barry Sheene.'

Rare is the two, three or four-wheeled machine that Brady has not driven. She has tried motocross, quad-biking, speedway, and spends much of her spare time at weekends go-karting. She has even road-tested a tank. I ask whether she could ever fall for a chap who does not know what it is to get Castrol GTX under his nails - who thinks, perhaps, that an MV Augusta F4 is the latest in washer-drier technology.

'Oooh no,' she says. 'I could never have a boyfriend who wasn't into bikes. Some girls go for guys in sailor uniforms, but I prefer leathers. It wouldn't work if he was into football instead. Football really bores me.'

So back to that MV Augusta F4. Why does that particular machine kick-start her reveries? 'I had a go on one once, and it was like, wowwww!' she enthuses. 'But it would have to be totally customised. It would be bright, in red, white and blue, with a few stars on.' Like, wowwww!

IN PRODUCTION

The men in black

Investigating UFOs and possible alien invasions is a serious, and secretive, business, a Discovery documentary will reveal. Interview: Tina Ogle

If you think you've been seeing little green men lately, then you could be in better company than you thought. For the ever so serious Ministry of Defence has a special unit dedicated to investigating extraterrestrial activity, not that they'll admit this officially.

This is the premise for a new documentary, Room 801, named after the room in the MOD and former Metropole Hotel where men have been meeting in secret since the 1950s to talk about the possibility of intergalactic invasions.

Set up under Winston Churchill, the wonderfully titled British Flying Saucer Working Party operated until the 1970s to look into any strange goings on reported by military personnel and members of the public. Emma Read, executive producer of the show (set to air on Discovery in August), explains: 'It was set up because they were having strange breakthroughs in British radar and they couldn't work out what they were. And RAF pilots kept reporting seeing the most unusual things.'

In the programme, Wing Commander Myles Formby reveals the investigative work done during the Cold War. Also interviewed are pilots who encountered members of the Flying Saucer Working Party. The former used to refer to the latter as the 'men in black', as they all used to turn up in head-to-toe dark clothing.

What fascinates Read is the fact that the MOD still hasn't officially admitted the existence of the BFSWP, but documents now released to the Public Records Office show that it did operate. 'And they still exist,' she says. 'There are still people in the MOD whose job it is to go out and investigate sightings.'

MISSION KIM POSSIBLE

If you think combining your social life with school work is tough, spare a thought for the latest animated character to hit your screens. The sassy Kim Possible manages to juggle her life as a secret agent with her priorities at school – and that's no easy task! Complete with a catchy soundtrack and a cameo performance from Britney Spears, this new action- and humour-packed series starts on Disney Channel in June.

THE FIGHT STUFF

Coming up at the end of June is a weekend of Tough Guys on UK Horizons. Part of the line-up includes a new documentary series, Born to Fight, in which we are given an up-close-and-personal look at the lesser-known side of the boxing business. White-collar boxing, women's boxing, un-licensed prize fighters, professional and amateur boxing are all thrown into the mix and Nell McAndrew, perhaps best known as the body of Lara Croft, is your host.

PHARAOH PLAY

For a unique take on the life and times of ancient civilisations, join Monty Python's Terry Jones on Discovery in July. Exploring Egypt and Rome, Jones's two Hidden History programmes throw new light on these important periods. From deciphering hieroglyphics to uncovering the lives of the Roman Empire's ordinary citizens, this is guaranteed to be fascinating, and humorous, stuff.

STARSHIP TROOPER

She plays three different incarnations of the spaceship in sci-fi series Andromeda, but, as Tina Ogle discovers, Lexa Doig has a refreshingly down-to-earth approach to life

EVEN HER NAME HAS the vague ring of science fiction. Actress Lexa Doig, in London to chat about her role as the spaceship Andromeda in Gene Roddenberry's series of the same name, snorts derisively at the very idea. 'Doig is a Scottish name and it's funny because I've read things about my name like, "Why do actors choose these ridiculous stage names?". And I'm like, do you think I'd choose Lexa Doig? What are you guys on?'

So Lexa Doig is her given name; the surname Caledonian, the first name short for Alexandra.

Born in Toronto, to a British father and a Filipina mother, she soon embraced the notion of acting. However, the mini version of Doig probably never dreamed that she'd actually end up playing three versions of a spaceship in a Vancouver-shot sci-fi epic. Regular viewers will probably grasp that Doig is a computer, a hologram and a humanoid version of the same character. The rest of us may struggle a little.

Luckily Doig is on hand to clarify matters: 'It's like three different faces pulled me aside and said, "You could actually do this. Don't waste your time here, go and check out an agency." So I did, but I'm not tall enough to be a model and I wasn't very successful at it.'

She did meet other actors while shooting commercials, however, who were generous enough to introduce her to their agents. 'So I started getting jobs. I was an angry teenager and I dropped out of high school and started working.' She regrets having no formal acting training but has resolved to take a class when she can. 'The problem as an actor is that you either have the time and not the money, or the money and not the time.'

As well as television roles, including one in British series CI5: The New Professionals, Doig has also made a number of movies. She is caustically and refreshingly honest about their calibre, however: 'Most of them have been pretty low budget. It's like guerrilla film making, you have to get it done as fast as possible. I also did Friday the 13th Part 10, but we like to call it Jason X,' she says,

“The problem as an actor is that you either have the time and not the money, or the money and not the time” of Eve, facets of the same personality. I'm a sentient starship, and the three different incarnations interact with the crew either on a screen, or as a hologram, or there's an android version of her called Rommie.'

Confused? Not as much as the actress herself can be when she has to have arguments with herself, which apparently happens every two to three episodes. 'You get used to it,' says Doig, grinning, 'It was a little confusing initially, but it just made sense after a while in your own head. Rommie is my favourite, she's the one who physically interacts and can leave the ship and go on missions.'

Had she been a little taller than 5ft 6ins, Doig may never have made it into space. Her aunt and uncle bought her a modelling course when she was in her teens, but it was a present of which she didn't wholeheartedly approve. 'Those things generally are a load of old codswallop, but one of the teachers with a broad wink. 'You do get a bit of extra time on movies but let's face it, it's Jason X, you don't need that much more time with the material. You just scream real loud and run away.'

She doesn't mind science fiction, though, describing it as 'period drama – the period just happens to be quite a bit into the future.' Her boyfriend is Michael Shanks, who plays the dreamy Dr Daniel Jackson in Stargate SG-1.

Brutally honest and totally hilarious, Doig is a huge breath of fresh air. She realises that her next move as an actress will probably carry her to LA and, boy, is she wary. 'It's a Mecca for actors and all roads lead there, but I can't say I like it. On the other hand, I'd love to play a role where I actually get to have a conversation with someone, as that doesn't seem to happen too much at the moment.' CG

Wright's WORLD

Ian Wright, the globetrotting presenter of Travel Channel's Pilot Guides, stays still just long enough to give us a snapshot of his nomadic lifestyle. And, right, enter Travel Channel's competition to win a trip to America

Where did you grow up?

Near Ipswich. I went back to a school reunion not long ago, and the old head master was there. I remember being hoiked in front of him during the mods and rockers revival when there were always fights, and he said: 'Whether you have long hair, or short, whether you're being mods or rockers, you are all flowers of the Cobblestone School garden.'

What were you doing before presenting Pilot Guides?

I went to art school where I did a lot of painting, which I loved. I then worked as a cycle courier and had a stall in London's Spitalfields Market, selling home-made jewellery, candlesticks and jams. I also worked at a community centre teaching art and drama to five to 12-year-old kids, the hardest work I've ever done.

How did you get the presenter job?

A friend saw a newspaper ad; I had travelled a lot, so sent in a show reel for a laugh. It was a joke, only five minutes long. I'm in Liverpool Street Station and all my bags fall over. I hit my head on the camera and start the piece: 'Here we are in London ...'

Which country have you liked the most?

With this job you get five months condensed into three weeks – the final programme gives you a splash of colour, a smell of the country. But Mongolia sticks out; the landscape is phenomenal. Cambodia as well. You have pre-conceived ideas and for the first five days all you see are the killing fields, but after that you forget it. People are young, they live for now.

I also love places above the Arctic Circle. Greenland was just amazing, a big wonderful ice cube.

What is the one item you always take when you travel?

I never travel without my sketchbook, but that's about it. There's nothing mysterious about a rucksack. All you need is money, passport, a change of clothes, and forget the rest.

Do you enjoy all the stunts?

I love it! I'm an adrenalin junky. Although I did a bull ride in Mexico that was a little out of control. And once in Vanuatu, (between the Solomon Islands and Fiji), we went right up to the lip of a volcano, but hadn't realised that the wind had changed and suddenly an explosion sent lava five metres from us. At the next explosion we started to run down the path!

Do you have time to meet the locals?

Yes, and now and again you meet very special people – like in Japan, when I met an A-bomb victim, who must be about 80 now. When the bomb dropped, she was in a hospital, the only building still standing, and walked around for three-and-a-half days just in a daze. She's had about 25 cancer operations. All these people, they're the ones with the stories, I'm just the boring glue that sticks it all together.

What is your favourite food?

I like to try anything – even cockroach in Cambodia! But my favourite is Southeast Asian food. In Asia, even in the middle of nowhere, you know you are still going to get a fantastic bowl of noodles. I am vegetarian, although not for the show.

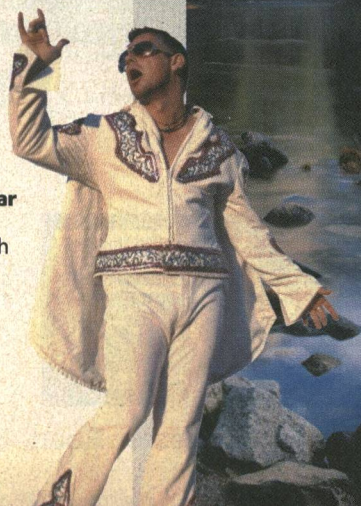

Where would you dream of going that you have not been to yet?

Definitely Vietnam – I love Southeast Asia. There is such a buzz on the streets there. The food is brilliant. But England is wonderful, too. From London you can jump on the train and be out in the country in an hour. Suffolk is particularly beautiful. There are rivers everywhere, so many little villages. Even just going over bridges in London and looking at the Thames gives you this little magic instant.

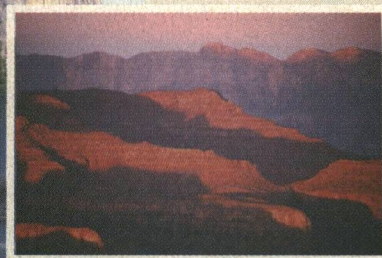

Finally, do you have a particular philosophy in life?

Not really. If you spend too much time thinking about it, then you miss it! Keep looking, meet different people, and exchange ideas. There is no rule.

TOP OF THE POPS

Sky One's new series takes a musical trip down memory lane to show us the pop world's highs since 1980.

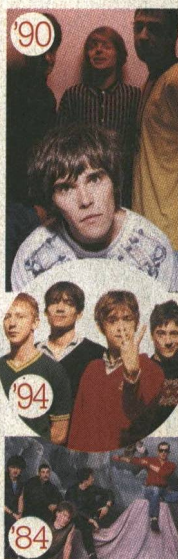

Tina Ogle gets the lowdown from producer Ric Blaxill

Pop heads, fact gatherers and sheer nostalgia buffs should all find much to amuse them in Sky One's latest venture, which explores some of the recently significant years in pop. A team of popular music experts, led by ex-Top of the Pops producer Ric Blaxill, got together to shape the 10-part series, which features shows on the most memorable 10 years between 1980 and the turn of the millennium.

For Blaxill, who is currently deputy programme controller of London's Capital Radio, producing the series was a labour of love. 'Choosing the years was just so easy. Off the top of our heads we sat down and said 1985 was Live Aid, 1990 was Madchester, 94 was Britpop, 96 was the Spice Girls, 83 was New Romantics, 84 was Frankie Goes To Hollywood, then there was the Second Summer of Love ... Suddenly you're going, "My God, we've got 10 years already!"

The brief was to produce a feelgood music show that brought back a lot of memories, but also put things in context. Thus they went for years that featured one big event, but as Blaxill explains: 'We also wanted a year which offered a lot of contrast in terms of music. We've found through research that people now have very diverse tastes, so we tried not to follow just one theme. There's so much music on television now that people don't follow just one genre. You think that trendy people will only listen to dance music, but it turns out that they're also into Linkin Park. We wanted to reflect that.'

We've all seen an awful lot of similar compilation shows with talking heads interspersed with clips, so how did Blaxill avoid the danger of repetition? 'It's quite a fast show. We were thinking, "There have been shows like this before. How can we make it different?" Our answer was to make it a lot tighter and to try to find some interviewees who you haven't really seen on these types of show before. We're very lucky in that we managed to get hold of a lot of the people who created the music we were talking about. So they look back either affectionately or with total embarrassment at what they'd created.

'Then we also brought into the loop younger artists who are around today, but who were influenced by the songs that we were talking about.' Thus you have Mis-teeq rhapsodising about Grandmaster Flash and learn why Puff Daddy used the tune of The Police hit Every Breath You Take on his single I'll Be Missing You.

Despite being an early devotee of glam and punk himself, Blaxill cites 1990 as his favourite show. 'I really enjoyed that one because we were able to do a really good guide to Madchester. We managed to get all the big players - Shaun Ryder, Tony Wilson from [legendary club] the Hacienda, DJ Pete Tong, and look at how important that was as a movement. It was about getting white guys into clubs. They couldn't dance very well, but they were going to clubs for dance music for the first time.'

If your attention span is shorter than that of a goldfish and the music isn't grabbing you, then there are also regular news and entertainment stories and slots such as Most Talked About Video of the Year, Cover Versions of the Year and Band with the Most Top 10 Hits. Says Blaxill: 'They're designed to make you think, "Oh my God, it surely wasn't that long ago?"' So they're going to make you feel older than Methuselah in other words? 'Oh no, they're designed to make you feel good,' says Blaxill, quickly. 'This is definitely about the feelgood factor.' cg

the BIG IDEA

Size matters in wrestling, which makes 7ft 2in Paul Wight, best known as Big Show to his fans, a global superstar. But, as Nick Griffiths discovers, he's big, but he's not bad

IT'S EASY TO SPOT World Wrestling Federation's Big Show, even in a crowd and out of the leotard. He is 7ft 2in tall, wears size 18 shoes, weighs approximately 480lbs and has a 64in chest. His T-shirt slogan reads: 'You say Huge likes it's a bad thing'. Au contraire. You say whatever a man wants to hear when he's that size.

Big Show's real name is Paul Wight. Meeting him in the flesh, you swiftly decide against asking superciliously whether he prefers to be called Paul or Mr Show. All the World Wrestling Federation wrestlers have great names: Mike Awesome, Justin Credible, Perry Saturn. They're fronts for the cartoon violence. The Undertaker's real name is Mark Callaway. The Rock is actually Dwayne Johnson. Knowing this doesn't make them any less imposing.

Big Show, former World Wrestling Federation Champion, two-time Tag Team Champion and two-time Hardcore Champion, is in town to promote the World Wrestling Federation's InsurreXtion at Wembley Arena. Tickets to the event sold out in 21 minutes. Everything about World Wrestling Federation is big.

'Being this size is a blessing,' says Big Show. 'There are ups and downs. Certain things: I'll never be able to fit in a Ferrari. But because of my size I have a wonderful job and the chance to influence people, interact with them, and bring a bright spot into their lives.'

'I catch little kids off guard sometimes, in a mall or something. They turn around and see me; they have that mouth hanging open, and that stare. They're not frightened, just in awe: "Is it real?!" It's a good thing. We all have our crosses to bear and I don't think mine is that tough. I'm a fortunate man.'

Until, that is, he's on a flight and receives the call of nature. 'On aeroplanes it's kinda tough. I've been on planes before and absolutely had to go to the toilet and had stewardesses holding a blanket over the front of the cubicle because I couldn't shut the door. Believe me, a lot of people in first class wanted downgrading. I didn't get any complimentary cashews that day.'

When he was growing up in South Carolina, other children mocked him for his size. Aged 12, he was 6ft 2in tall and had a hairy chest. Recently guesting on the Conan O'Brien talk show, he recounted his first kiss, at a roller-skating rink. 'I was 12, she was 11. It's by the lockers. We all remember our first kiss. I get tackled by a rent-a-cop who thinks I'm a 20-year-old pervert. The guy cuffs me and throws me on the ground and wants to see ID. I'm 12 years old. I don't even have a library card, for crying out loud. I'm in tears. The girl never spoke to me again.' Fortunately, his luck changed and since February he has been married to long-time girlfriend Bess.

At college, Wight was a star basketball player and had designs on becoming a marine biologist. But instead he fell into a series of ill-suited jobs and only nine years ago, he was so broke he was forced to eat a toothpaste sandwich. 'I just wanted to taste something. I didn't want to eat just dry bread. I'd have put mustard on it if I'd had mustard, but I didn't have anything.'

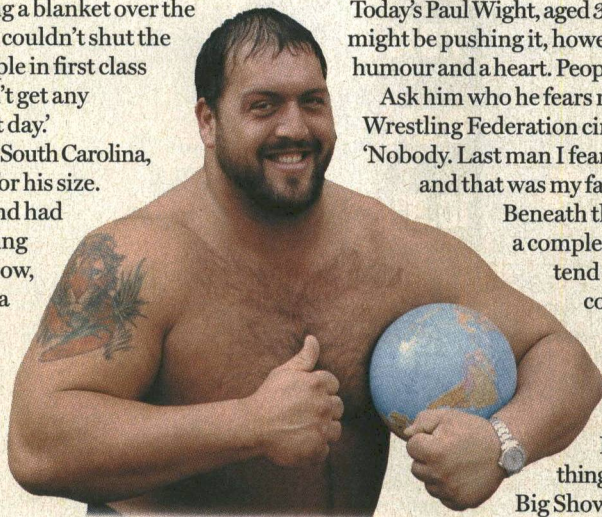

Was that what motivated him back in 1995 to begin the wrestling career, obviously tailor-made for someone of his size? 'No, it wasn't the being broke. It was the being lost and not being a part of something. My whole life I'd been part of a basketball team or some sort of team, and I didn't have that any more.'

'In the past I was a little hot-headed. I had a bad attitude as a kid.'

Today's Paul Wight, aged 30, is different. 'Big Softie' might be pushing it, however he has a sense of humour and a heart. People don't mock any longer.

Ask him who he fears most on the World Wrestling Federation circuit and he replies, 'Nobody. Last man I feared died 10 years ago and that was my father.'

Beneath that giant's exterior lies a complex human being. Books tend to be judged by their covers. Some people might think such a vast man to be slow, perhaps even dim-witted - but not me, I stress hastily. 'Good thing. You're still breathing!' Big Show jokes (hopefully).

For looks, showing off and driving through country lanes on sunny days, you can't beat a convertible. But how do the soft tops rate when it comes to security and practicality?

IF I OFFERED YOU the car of your dreams, there'd be a high chance that you'd pick a soft top. And one that carried a super-sexy badge, I'd bet – Ferrari, Porsche, etc. And who could blame you? Fair play.

We Brits have had a bizarre love affair with topless motors for, well, forever. I say 'bizarre' because the UK climate isn't exactly what one would call ideal for such cars. But, hey, nobody can knock our enthusiasm.

There are not many vehicles that surpass the looks of a two-seater soft top. OK, some superbikes have the edge in my personal book, but there's not a lot on four wheels that's finer. Show me a TVR Tuscan and I'll show you my impression of a salivating child. Give me the keys and I'm one happy kiddy.

Convertibles come in a variety of shapes and sizes, but it's the cars that are designed to have no roof, from the time the designer first put his pencil to paper, that are the real winners. Porsche's Boxster and Honda's S2000 are a couple that spring to mind in the medium-affordable category (£26,000-£38,000), but usually the cars that have a tin-top heritage – the VW Golf and Renault Megane, Alfa Romeo GTV, Vauxhall Astra and Saab 9-3, for example – betray their roots to the full. They all look like their hard-top siblings, only they've been seen to with a chainsaw. These don't really fit into the 'lust-after' category of open tops. They're shaped all wrong – their windscreens aren't sleek, their bodies aren't streamlined – in short, they're not up to the job. Convertibles equal sexy. And these are not.

Cruising along quiet roads with the wind blowing around you, the full smells of the countryside filling your nostrils are some of the joys of cabriolets. But with them you want the feeling that you're in a special car. One that heightens your senses – and that only comes when you're in a saucy looking motor.

Film directors use good-looking convertibles in their storylines because they're great to look at and add a touch of glamour. Who can forget those hilarious scenes in Bridget Jones's Diary in which Hugh Grant and Renée Zellweger roar off together with the roof down for the weekend?

Why didn't they take a battered up saloon? It wouldn't have made the same impression. Why did Magnum PI have a ragtop Ferrari? It added sexiness to his already appealing character. And why did Thelma and Louise drive off a cliff top in a car with the roof down? Well, we'd have had a tough job seeing the expression on their faces otherwise!

There aren't too many downsides to owning a soft top. If you're single and carefree then that's a bonus, as they're not renowned for their practicality. However, there are some that cater for the family – BMW's 3-Series convertible is a cracker, but the new Peugeot 206 Cabriolet has such a cumbersome hood package that once it's dropped, the room in the two back seats drops, too.

Many cabriolets have plastic rear screens that scratch easily, retain grime and invite thieves to give them a knife wound, as do the cloth hoods, despite being super-thick and waterproof. Noise levels in the cabin are generally higher than in a hard-top car, too, but really these are all small factors that are far outweighed by the wonderful, sensuous, joyful feeling you get from dropping the top on a sunny day and driving for the sheer thrill of it.

Long live the real two-seater topless machines – especially those with two seats only. ⚙️

ON THE BALL

I would like to know whether British Eurosport, or any other sport channels, are going to be covering NBA Basketball. I am a fan of this sport [pictured, above], which is exciting and entertaining, but so far this season no channel has shown anything apart from the odd game. Every other sport on the planet is featured, but no NBA.

Ms G Hyde, Bournemouth

Well, there's a stroke of luck! Sky Sports has coverage of the NBA from this season until the end of the 2004 season. Keep an eye on Sky Sports 3 on Sunday 26th and Monday 27th this month.

NO BUTTS ABOUT IT

Could you please tell me if Beavis and Butt-head is coming back to MTV? It used to be on MTV nearly every night, until one day it just disappeared. They are greatly missed by me and my friends. I'm not really worried if the episodes are repeats or even new ones, I just want to know if they are coming back on any cable channel. Thanks.

Chris, e-mail

An MTV spokesperson replies: 'We're sorry to hear that you're missing Beavis and Butt-head on MTV. As you probably already know, the series is no longer in production (the last episode was made several years ago).

However, you can still catch all the vintage episodes on [digital channel] MTV2 every Friday at 11.00pm. Beavis and Butt-head may put in the odd appearance on MTV in the future, too.'

A CHANGE OF SIGNATURE TUNE

In his column in the March issue of Cable Guide, Brian Viner portrays actress Jessica Lange as a modest, talented lady who has never forgotten where she came from. Having just enjoyed a successful run on London's West End stage she has much to be satisfied with.

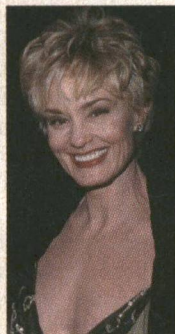

Unashamed admirer of hers that I am, I wrote to her at the theatre in which she was appearing. It was a polite letter, which ended with my asking for a signed photograph, enclosing also an SAE.

The reply contained not a signed photograph, but a handwritten note saying, 'Miss Lange does not give her signature'.

Was I not writing to the modest, talented lady according to Brian Viner, but an imposter?

David Moore, e-mail

MEDIUM WELL DONE

I had been watching the Jerry Springer Show on LivingTV one Saturday night and just happened to leave it on that channel - I'm so glad I did. I watched Crossing Over with [medium] John Edward with my mouth open. I don't know how long this programme has been showing, but I'm totally hooked. Any sceptics out there - watch Crossing Over, it'll change your mind. I always wanted to meet Tom Jones, but now I'd love to meet John Edward!

Sue Harrison, Manchester

LivingTV tells us that the channel is hoping to bring John Edward over to the UK soon. Because of John Edward's hectic schedule there are no firm dates confirmed at the moment. However, watch out for a competition on LivingTV this summer to win tickets to go on his show and an all-expenses-paid trip to New York. There will also be a competition on LivingTV's website, www.livingtv.co.uk, this month to win signed copies of his book One Last Time and signed pictures of the man himself.

VIEWING CHALLENGE

Challenge TV is getting so stale, I'm surprised the on-screen logo hasn't turned green yet!

Instead of endless repeats of Family Fortunes, why don't they buy in gameshows from the US? Anything's bound to be an improvement on Les Dennis and his dodgy impressions.

Derek Booth, e-mail

The amount of times Challenge TV repeats Family Fortunes is beyond a joke. I love Challenge TV, and I think it's the best channel on TV, but please stop repeat after repeat.

James Hanvidge, e-mail

A Challenge TV spokesperson responds: 'Family Fortunes is one of the channel's most popular shows and we are inundated with requests to repeat it.

However, you'll be pleased to know that Challenge TV is relaunching in May as Challenge - the home of TV gaming - with a brand new look and exciting new gameshows.'

LETTER OF THE MONTH

War stories

I hope there is a chance of seeing the series The Story of Colditz in the near future. I must confess to being a fanatic of the subject. I was in the RAF during WWII, but luckily I was not a POW.

As a glider pilot who has worked on repairing gliders I have a certain interest in the subject.

While on a trip by road to Poland to take part in a course flying jet fighters, I diverted slightly to visit Colditz Castle [below] and found it fascinating. There is a museum in the town that contains a collection of the artifacts made by the prisoners, together with a large-scale model of the Colditz Glider.

I wasn't able to see the first episodes as I was unaware that the programme was being broadcast at the time, so next time I want to be prepared.

R D Frodsham, e-mail

Congratulations, you've won £50! Although we know of no current plans to show The Story of Colditz, History Channel will be showing the Escape from Colditz series on Sundays at 6.00pm from 30 June. The Colditz Story, the 1955 film starring John Mills, The Story of Colditz and Escape from Colditz are all available to buy on video.

MAX FACTOR

I am writing to say how much I enjoy Fear Factor on Sky One and that the new series is even better. Also, I was wondering whether you could tell me if there will be a UK version, as I would love to apply.

H Johns, Liverpool

There will indeed be a UK version of Fear Factor on Sky One. For more information about applying to be on the show, go to www.endemoluk.com, or call the hotline on 09066 800 602 to request an application form. Good luck!

DIAGNOSIS: POSITIVE

I'm e-mailing you about Diagnosis Murder on the Hallmark Channel. I think that it is a great show.

Please can I have an address I can write to? I think Barry Van Dyke is good-looking!

Ellen Clabby, e-mail

Ellen, Diagnosis Murder finished an eight-year run in May 2001, and two TV movies have been filmed since then, but as filming has finished, there is no official address to write to. Barry, 50, is the second son of the legendary Dick Van Dyke. He's been married to Mary since 1974 and he has four children. You can join the Barry Van Dyke appreciation society by e-mailing K9lovers@bright.net.

DVD DREAMING

I am a huge fan of Dream Team, and have watched every episode since it first started. I was wondering if it will ever be released on DVD or video, as I think it is the greatest show on TV and I would love to see the early episodes again.

Gordon McCabe, e-mail

There are currently no plans to release Dream Team on video or DVD, but Sky One is planning to show repeats over the summer months, so do stay tuned for more information. Also, don't miss the season finale on Sunday 5th.

RACE RETURN

I'd just like to say I've thoroughly enjoyed watching CBS's The Amazing Race on Sky One, even though its schedule was totally mucked around with (why this was the case, I still don't know). I understand The Amazing Race 2 premiered in America on 11 March. Does Sky One have any plans to air the new show in the UK?

Mark Baldin, e-mail

Sorry, Mark, we're told there are currently no plans to show the second series of The Amazing Race on Sky One.

SEARCHING FOR A PROFILE

I have been waiting for the programme Profiler to come back onto LivingTV. As they showed the first season again, I was wondering when, or if, LivingTV is going to show the next series.

Miss Kirby, e-mail

A LivingTV spokesperson replies: 'LivingTV is not planning to show the fourth series of Profiler at present, although if you are a fan of Julian McMahon, don't forget you can watch him in the spellbinding fourth series of Charmed (Saturdays at 9.00pm and Mondays at 8.00pm).'

THE PURRFECT CARTOON

I'd love Cartoon Network to show the fantastic cartoon series Thundercats again. I think it is the greatest cartoon series ever and I would be in TV heaven if they scheduled a re-show – there is a huge fan following on the internet. Some fans download old shows off the internet, but the rest of us with slower connection speeds cannot do this and so miss out on our favourite cartoon show, which is completely unfair!

Nuggi Khan, e-mail

You're not the only Thundercats fan we know, Nuggi. But, sadly, Cartoon Network has no plans to show the series for the foreseeable future. Sorry!

EDITOR'S NOTE

We've got a fabulously futuristic cover this month to introduce May's space-age film guide. Cover star Carrie-Anne Moss heads for the Red Planet (page 34), while Hollywood veteran Clint Eastwood also reaches for the stars in Space Cowboys (page 37).

Take a musical trip down memory lane in Sky One's Pop Years (page 15). And from beauty to the beast: we meet Andromeda's Lexa Doig (page 9), as well as wrestling giant (literally), Big Show, on page 16.

If you fancy a trip to the home of WWFE, the US, enter our competition (page 12) and you could be hitting the road through western USA on a fantastic fly-drive holiday. And don't forget to vote in our awards – it's your opportunity to have your say about cable TV.

BEHIND THE WORLD CUP

The World Cup without Brazil?
It nearly happened.

WHY THIS IS WORTH WATCHING

Well, if the thought of Brazil almost failing to qualify, in 'Heart of Football' (10pm), isn't enough to make you drop your maracas, you can follow the people who actually organise this huge tournament in 'The Ultimate Goal' (9pm). And you can start your football fest by looking in on how the host nations are coping with the football fever enveloping the Far East in the run up to the world's greatest tournament in 'Planet Soccer' (8pm). Three documentaries that will provide an interesting and welcome alternative to the current deluge of World Cup programmes.

Feathered friends

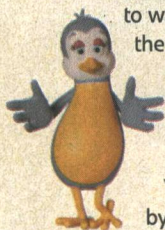

➔ Maggie the pigeon, Pete the starling, Tom the owl and Holly the blue tit are the T-Birds, 20-somethings who all share a house together.

They're also the stars of PG Tips' latest telly adverts, produced by Aardman, the brains behind the animated blockbusters Wallace and Gromit and Chicken Run.

Maggie works in publishing, but wants to write a book of her own. When not putting pen to paper she's shopping, which explains why she hasn't got past chapter one! Science teacher Pete loves football and dreams of playing left wing for Newcastle United. For Tom, life's too precious to waste working. He's more at home discussing the meaning of life with Pete – as long as he's got his feet up, sipping a mug of PG Tips.

Wide-eyed Holly is the latest addition. She's a secretary working for an IT company and takes a New Age approach to life.

fishy business

Voice-over artist Tara Strong is 29, but was still star-struck when she met childhood hero Jodi Benson, the voice of the Little Mermaid, while making the sequel. Interview: Tina Ogle ➔ Even as an experienced voice artist, actress Tara Strong found starring in Disney's sequel to The Little Mermaid an overwhelming task.

'I was 16 when the first one came out and I was the biggest fan. I still have all the posters in my room at home and I used to run around impersonating Jodi Benson.'

Benson voiced Ariel in the original 1989 film and Strong got to play her daughter Melody in Little Mermaid II. 'When you do recordings you normally do them by yourself so I didn't think I was going to meet Jodi, but I did. She came in and I shook her hand and burst into tears. I said, "I've loved you forever," and she was just a doll.'

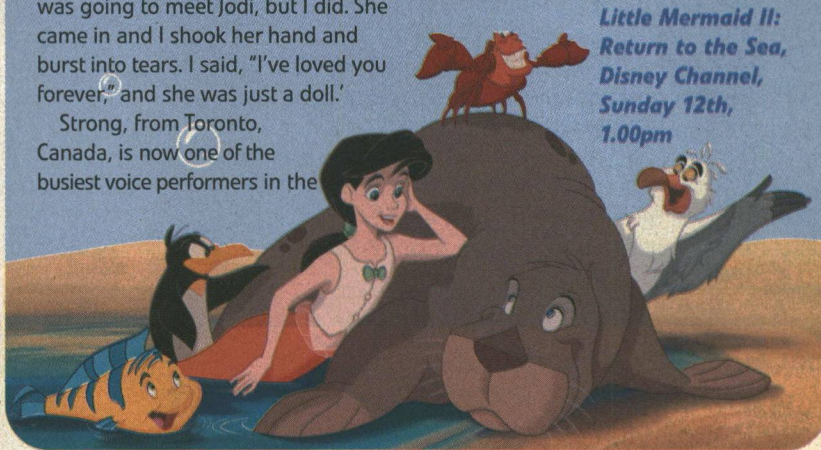

Strong, from Toronto, Canada, is now one of the busiest voice performers in the business. Her work can be heard on Rugrats, Care Bears, 101 Dalmatians and Batman and Robin.

Strong feels Melody's appeal lies in the trials of her growing up: 'I think the film will help kids to say, "You know what? I should just be happy being me and being different isn't something that's bad."'

As her fans constantly ask advice on how to get into voice acting, Strong has set up her own website. So if your vocal chords deserve a wider audience, check out www.voicestarz.com.

Toon in and lock down

➔ Toonami fans should be on red alert this May, because the spacecraft Absolution, driven by Toonami's computer-generated host TOM, is set to get in trouble – it's going to be locked into a tractor beam and pulled toward imminent danger.

Only you can help the Absolution during its weeklong struggle, but you must first register (from Tuesday 7th) at www.CartoonNetwork.co.uk. Once registered, you'll be assigned to a team. You'll then have to download maps of the salvage ship and go round it gathering tools, data and weapons, while battling robots and other creatures. The scores of each team will be shown each day.

During Toonami Lockdown, Cartoon Network will be showing new episodes of Blue Submarine 6 and Dragonball Z.

Now, prepare to battle to the bitter end!  Toonami Lockdown, Cartoon Network, Monday 13th to Friday 17th, 5.00pm. Don't forget to register first!

Adopt a tiger

We are seeking foster parents for Jasper. He was only a month old when rescued from smugglers who were intending to sell him. He was destined for the animal trade and was already suffering from rickets and malnutrition. Care for the Wild International immediately sent veterinary help and medical supplies but we need the support of foster parents to help with his on-going care.

The money you give will help to provide him with the care he needs at his natural habitat enclosure in Cambodia and will provide funds for tiger conservation worldwide.

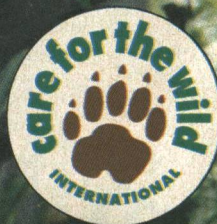

The worldwide tiger population is in deep water as poaching and the illegal trade in tiger parts continues. With your support we can work to prevent poaching and help its victims like Jasper.

For £18.95 you will receive a gift pack which includes:

- An adoption certificate with a colour picture of Jasper
- An exclusive tiger T-shirt
- A tiger fact sheet
- An update after six months
- A renewal request after twelve months

The pack is available individually (without a donation) for £4.95

Rocking Robbie

Check out VH1's Robbie Williams Day and you'll find out everything you wanted to know about the nation's favourite cheeky chappie but were afraid to ask ➔ Since leaving Take That almost seven years ago Robbie Williams has gone from squeaky-clean boybander to rabble-rousing rebel, and finally emerging as the king of swing. With a nudge, a wink and a grin, Robbie has undoubtedly become one of the world's top entertainers, a fact that VH1 celebrates with a dedicated day.

The day kicks off with a countdown of Robbie's ultimate Top 10 hits, from his first smash Angel to his duet with Nicole Kidman, Somethin' Stupid. VH1 then turns back the clock to the early Nineties, showing an early Robbie in Take That Live in Berlin, a sensational concert with the Fab Five at their world-beating pop best. Staying with Robbie's early career, there's Greatest Hits: Take That, which sees a collection of the boys' best songs, including How Deep Is Your Love, Back for Good and Relight My Fire.

In Robbie Williams – Music Express Robbie talks candidly about the pressures of success and his hopes for the future, and reflects on his career, from wannabe to national heartthrob. Just for good measure, VH1 has squeezed in Greatest Hits: Robbie Williams. cg

Child's play: Bruce Willis with Spencer Breslin

Generation game

Seven-year-old Spencer Breslin was three years too young to play Rusty in Disney's The Kid, but he was so impressive that the script was re-written for him. Interview: Tina Ogle ➔ Disney's The Kid sees stressed and unhappy adult Russ Duritz (Bruce Willis) meeting his younger self by some unexplained time-space continuum. And Rusty junior (Spencer Breslin) is definitely unimpressed at what his 40-year-old self has turned out to be.

The casting of 'The Kid' was key to the film's success. What the producers were initially looking for was a child aged 10 or 11. Disney's casting directors looked at 5000 boys, while director Jon Turteltaub himself saw 200. When Turteltaub was told he was about to meet a seven-year-old, he thought they were wasting his time. 'Then Spencer walked in and he looked even younger than seven and I kind of rolled my eyes, but he started talking and he was just the most hilarious person I have ever spoken to.'

Once the writer met Spencer and was equally bowled over by his star quality, she agreed to re-write the script to fit in with his younger age. Says Turteltaub: 'And having had my arm twisted to cast Spencer, I was thrilled. He was funny, dorky and adorable and just jumped off the screen.'

Turteltaub almost came a cropper, however, when he broached the subject of Spencer's unique speech patterns with his mother. 'In the film, Bruce is constantly criticising his younger self for all the things that are wrong with him, like his weight and his height. Spencer has his own way of saying his S's and it would have been wrong to ignore it. So I called his mom and asked her first, would it be OK for Bruce to make fun of Spencer's speech impediment? To which she said, "What speech impediment?" I thought, all right, that goes on the list of the worst moments of my life.'

Then Turteltaub asked Spencer whether he'd be OK about it. 'And he said: "Well of course, he's just acting, he doesn't mean it."' cg

1988 DIR JOHN McTIERNAN
BRUCE WILLIS, BONNIE BEDELIA,
ALAN RICKMAN

Sky MovieMax, Friday 3rd, 10.00pm

In only his second film, Willis joined the ranks of the Hollywood action hero. In this incident-filled extravaganza, that's both thrilling and comic, Willis plays John McClane, a New York cop visiting Los Angeles to try to effect a reconciliation with wife Bedelia. While visiting her high-tech office, the building is taken over by terrorists led by Hans Gruber (a gleefully evil Rickman). Dressed only in trousers and a vest, McClane manages to remain hidden in the building's ventilation system while he does battle with Gruber. The film's got it all: punchy dialogue, impressive stunts and wanton destruction of buildings – perfect entertainment.

COYOTE UGLY

2000 DIR DAVID McNALLY
PIPER PERABO, ADAM GARCIA

Sky Premier, Saturday 4th, 8.00pm

A change of pace for Hollywood mega-producer Jerry Bruckheimer, this is a small-scale story produced on a big scale. New Jersey girl Violet (Perabo) arrives in New York determined to make it big in music. She soon finds a boyfriend (Garcia), and when money is tight gets a job in a raucous bar, the Coyote Ugly of the title, run by tough-talking Maria Bello. While still trying to sell her songs, Violet has to overcome her stage-fright to pour drinks down punters' throats while standing on the bar performing karaoke. A traditional 'dreams can come true' movie, and Perabo and Garcia are talented newcomers.

THE FRENCH CONNECTION

1971 DIR WILLIAM FRIEDKIN
Sky Cinema, Sunday 5th, 10.00pm

FRENCH CONNECTION II

1975 DIR JOHN FRANKENHEIMER
Sky Cinema, Sunday 14th, 10.00pm

Gene Hackman deservedly won an Oscar for his creation of one of Hollywood's most unforgettable characters, the thuggish and obsessive New York cop Popeye Doyle. In the first film, he and fellow cop Roy Scheider are trying to uncover the source of a flood of heroin that's being shipped into New York from France by suave, sophisticated criminal Fernando Rey. In the second film Doyle follows Rey to France and suffers hideous cold turkey when he's forcibly addicted to heroin thanks to Rey's tough guys.

FAME

1980 DIR ALAN PARKER
RENE CARA, LEE CURRERI, LAURA DEAN
TCM, Wednesday 1st, 9.00pm

Give director Parker some decent tunes and he'll make a decent movie – just think of Bugsy Malone, The Commitments and Evita. This is no exception: a lively drama about the students of a performing arts high school in New York. Starting from auditions, the film charts the trials and tribulations of the students, both at school and in their daily lives, interrupted with energetic musical and dance routines. The Oscar-winning title song has lasted better than most of the cast (and the follow-up TV series), but you might just recognise ER's abrasive Dr Romano, Paul McCrane, among the hopefuls.

LAST TANGO IN PARIS

1972 DIR BERNARDO BERTOLUCCI
MARLON BRANDO, MARIA SCHNEIDER,
JEAN-PIERRE LÉAUD

Carlton Cinema, Sunday 19th, 11.00pm

Opinions are still divided about this once highly controversial movie that was banned in several parts of the world for its frank sexual content. Brando puts in a powerful if not particularly likable performance as Paul, an American living in

Bedazzled, The Time Machine,
French Connection II, Coyote
Ugly and Last Tango in Paris

France and grieving over his wife's suicide. He enters into a loveless, obsessive sexual affair with a stranger, the much younger Jeane (Schneider), and they both ponder the meaning of their lives. It's beautifully filmed, has one of the loveliest scores in Seventies cinema (an atmospheric, jazz-tinged affair by Gato Barbieri), and Brando is unforgettable. But you know that the affair is not going to end well, and the film still leaves a bitter taste in the mouth.

THE KING AND I

1956 DIR WALTER LANG
YUL BRYNNER, DEBORAH KERR,
RITA MORENO

Carlton Cinema, Friday 3rd, 7.00pm

If anyone can be said to ever have truly inhabited a role, it must be Yul Brynner. He performed the role of the King of Siam more than 4000 times on stage, and deservedly won an Oscar for his movie performance as the forbidding Oriental despot, who is taught humanity and love by Anna Leonowens (Kerr), the English governess of his many children. Even after nearly 50 years, the film (which won five Oscars in all) remains a delight, with its outstanding Rodgers and Hammerstein score, lively dialogue and fantastic set and costume design. A winner all the way.

THE TIME MACHINE

1960 DIR GEORGE PAL
ROD TAYLOR, ALAN YOUNG, YVETTE MIMIEUX
TCM, Monday 6th, 11.15pm

Oscar-winning special effects greatly enhance this spirited adaptation of H G Wells's celebrated novel by Pal (who had previously produced another Wells adaptation, 1953's The War of the Worlds). George (Taylor) is an inventor in Victorian London who explores time travel in his latest contraption, only to learn of the violence and horror that awaits mankind in the years to come, particularly in the distant future, when humans, now called Eloi, have effectively become the food for the hideously mutated underground-dwelling Morlocks. Can George, who's fallen in love with one of the Eloi, help them change their destiny?

BEDAZZLED

BRENDAN FRASER, ELIZABETH HURLEY,
FRANCES O'CONNOR

Sky Premier, Saturday 11th, 8.00pm

Hurley fairly sizzles in a succession of slinky red outfits, playing the Devil hell-bent on tempting bumbling office worker Elliot (Fraser). She offers him seven wishes, knowing he has an unrequited love for his colleague Alison (O'Connor), who doesn't even recognise his existence, in exchange for his soul. And in return, director Ramis jettisons the satire of Stanley Donen's 1967 Peter Cook and Dudley Moore original in favour of some jolly slapstick sketches. Some scenes work better than others, but Fraser is engaging and Hurley is devilish enough to tempt anyone.

MEMENTO

GUY PEARCE, CARRIE-ANNE MOSS,
JOE PANTOLIANO

Sky Premier, Tuesday 14th, 10.00pm

An unrecognisable Pearce (whip-thin, bleached blonde) is insurance investigator Leonard, who's suffered short-term memory loss since his wife's murder. He's trying to find her killer with the help of photographs and tattoos of important leads, and regularly encounters two people, Natalie and Teddy (Moss and Pantoliano, both from The Matrix), whose motives for helping Leonard are distinctly muddy. Although scenes run forward in time, the film actually starts at the end and works its way back to the beginning: by the end you'll be as confused as Leonard, but that's part of its attraction.

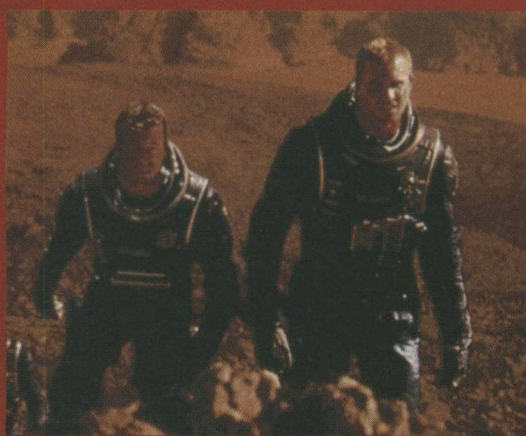

A close-up photograph of actress Carrie-Anne Moss. She is lying down, propped up on her left arm, wearing a vibrant red, strapless dress. Her head is resting on a large, patterned orange and brown pillow. She has a contemplative expression, looking slightly away from the camera. The lighting is soft, highlighting her features and the texture of the dress and pillow.

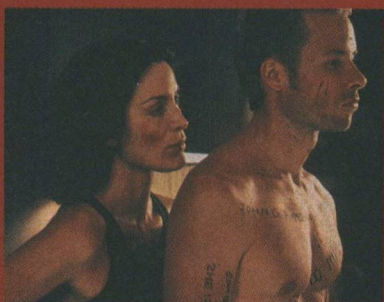

SEEING RED

Hollywood star Carrie-Anne Moss has made a name as a sci-fi action heroine in The Matrix and in this month's Red Planet. But, as she tells Lawrie Masterson, she prefers more romantic movies

2001: A Space Odyssey, director Stanley Kubrick's visionary sci-fi masterpiece

THE SCIENCE FICTION MOVIE

Red Planet wasn't just an opportunity for Carrie-Anne Moss to play a strong female character and see more of a country she loves.

Aside from the fact she portrays a spacecraft commander on a mission to save the human race, no less, in a film made in Australia – almost her second home, thanks to her involvement in the Matrix franchise – Moss has other, fonder memories of Red Planet.

During filming she announced her engagement to Canadian actor Steve Roy. The couple, who married in 1999, bought matching rings at a small store near Sydney's famous Bondi Beach. 'Thirty-five Australian bucks [about £12.50],' Moss says, proudly showing off her wide, silver wedding band. 'Steve's the most important thing in my life, but, as much as I'd like to talk to you about my husband because he's the greatest, I'll try not to – it's so hard because all you want to talk about is the person you love, right? Who cares about the movies, you know?'

Indeed. She does care and, apart from The Matrix and its two forthcoming sequels, which are both slated for releases next year, Moss is forging a reputation not just as one of the screen's few female action stars, but also as a fine dramatic actress; recent roles include the Academy Award-nominated Chocolat and the intriguing thriller Memento (also showing on Tuesday 14th on Sky Premier).

In fact, Moss confesses she's not a huge sci-fi fan. 'I like romantic movies,' she explains. 'I enjoy a good science fiction film, but I never thought of The Matrix that way. I always saw it as a love story.'

'When I looked at Red Planet, I knew it was about Mars but I just thought of it as a strong story. What if we destroy this planet and have to look for somewhere else to live? That's kind of terrifying.'

In Red Planet, which premieres on Sky MovieMax this month, Moss plays Commander Kate Bowman. The year is 2050, Earth is dying and colonising Mars is the only alternative to extinction. So Bowman and her crew, including Val Kilmer, Tom Sizemore and Terence Stamp, make the first manned expedition to the planet. But while they confirm that Mars is barren, they also discover it is not uninhabited.

Moss, 34, went to Magee Secondary School in Vancouver, Canada – one of her friends was Gil Bellows, who has since tasted acting success in Ally McBeal – but after some experience in local theatre, the 20-year-old Moss moved to Europe to try to make it as a model.

Her first acting break arrived 11 years ago when she was cast in an American series called Dark Justice, originally produced in Barcelona. When filming moved to L.A, she followed. Dark Justice folded, but Moss landed spots in other series, such as LA Law and Due South, then regular roles in Models Inc. and F/X.

Her film work had been mostly low-key until The Matrix and, surprisingly, apart from Red Planet, Moss hasn't been inundated with offers to play action women. She had a strong supporting role as Dame Judi Dench's conservative daughter in Chocolat and in Memento she was a mysterious bartender.

'There aren't many scripts like The Matrix, so typecasting hasn't been a problem,' Moss says. 'I've played some roles that were kind of different, but I didn't think of that when I was saying yes or no. Every time it's for a different reason.'

Planet Hollywood

The 1970s saw a wave of sci-fi movies that rarely strayed beyond the oppressive confines of the spaceships, and instead focused mostly on the feelings of claustrophobia and strained relationships of the crew. But here we celebrate those offerings that revel in the excitement, suspense and adventure of exploring strange new planets.

In Clint condition

In Space Cowboys Clint Eastwood plays a retired engineer, but the 71-year-old, now into his fifth decade in films, has no plans to stop work in real life. Interview: Jenny Carrillo

CLINT EASTWOOD IS SO relaxed and laid-back that you forget how accomplished he is. That is until the filmmaker, who turns 72 at the end of this month, begins speaking so articulately and passionately about Space Cowboys, his latest big-screen challenge, which contains the most special effects he's ever worked with on a film. Eastwood also corralled some of the biggest stars in Hollywood to join him in the movie, namely James Garner, Donald Sutherland and Tommy Lee Jones, who play fellow air force pilots, reunited after 50 years to go into space for a mission that will fulfil all their dreams.

Eastwood was originally down to produce and star in Space Cowboys but then wound up directing it, too. 'I talked to a few directors about doing it and they all spoke about the difficulties,' says Eastwood, 'and I started thinking, "Why does everybody think it's so difficult?" Then I talked to ILM [the special effects company, Industrial Light & Magic] and they said it could be done. They showed me mock-ups and the more I thought about it, the more I thought I could

'There is nothing you can do except take care of yourself and age gracefully, or smoke and drink and go into a decline' get into it and it could be achieved.

'I worked on Space Cowboys for almost a year and a half and by the time I finished the conventional part of the film it was no problem at all. That is apart from waiting and waiting for effects to arrive. I didn't even get the last ones in until 30 days before the first press screening!'

Special effects aside, there's also a human story to tell. 'I believe it is the human element that sells it,' states Eastwood. 'You can have a lot of special effects in movies, but I still have an old-fashioned theory that the story is king and the relationships are the most important part of that. Without the story, the effects become like a tour of a national park or something.'

This is the 23rd film that Eastwood has directed, an often overlooked but extremely successful element of his career. And, as might be imagined, his approach to the job is nothing if not direct. 'Yeah, I go right to it,' he says with a smile. 'The film is the cheapest commodity of the whole process. Time is very important and expensive but you can rehearse things on film and see what happens. That way, good things can happen right away. A couple of times, Donald would say, "Are we rehearsing now, what are we doing?," and I'd say, "No, that's it!," and he'd say, "Oh, I can do it much better," and I'd say, "No, I don't want it better, that's good." It was spontaneous and that helped the camaraderie aspect that works so well in the film.'

During filming, Donald Sutherland broke his knee and James Garner broke his shoulder. However, Eastwood insists his no-nonsense style of leadership wasn't to blame. 'Those damn space suits, they were so damn heavy,' the director explains. 'Donald had to do a thing where he was holding the suit and he fell back and cracked his knee. Jim had his shoulder pop out of the socket, but I once played a role where I had chronic shoulder dislocation so I was familiar with how to put the shoulder back in and we went about it and it worked. We finished the day and that was fine, although Jimmy didn't play golf for a while.'

The film has a lot to say about aging and Eastwood has a typical indefatigable attitude towards the passage of time, too. 'Everything has been a ball and I've just enjoyed it all,' he says. 'Whatever happens, there is nothing you can do about it except take care of yourself and age gracefully, or smoke and drink and go into a decline. I take reasonably good care of myself and enjoy the process.

'Age makes you more appreciative of your family and a lot of the things you take for granted as a younger person. You're not as driven. In the early days you get depressed with your career when you hit a rough spot because you don't know what is around the corner. When you got work, you took it. I was an incessant worker in the Sixties and Seventies and all through the Eighties, but in the Nineties, where I think I did some of my better work, I was just working along at a good pace. Space Cowboys is my first picture of the new century, my fifth decade of releasing films, and that is a pretty long time.'

Unsurprisingly, there are no plans to retire. 'I'll keep doing it for a while,' says Eastwood. 'I have got other interests, so one day I may say to hell with it.'

The above examples all gathered by our reporters and readers during 2000.

Every month readers of Government Auction News receive details of over 1,000 hard-to-find auctions. Many of these are 'no reserve' auctions where the goods must be sold regardless of how low the winning bid. If you want to learn where to find thousands of bargains every bit as good as these examples then send for a RISK-FREE TRIAL ISSUE of Government Auction News today, and save £20.

Why auction prices are so low.

People sell at auction when they are in a hurry. Perhaps they don't want to store the goods any more, or maybe they need the money urgently, or possibly they haven't the facilities to deal with prospective buyers. Whatever the reason, the result is that auction prices represent some unbelievable bargains.

The BIG secret.

Auctions of the type covered by Government Auction News don't get publicised because a) the auctioneers don't make enough profit to make it worth their while and b) most bidders are 'trade' and they don't want extra competition. The one proven way to discover where these auctions are is to read Government Auction News.

Types of auction covered.

Police lost property - Ministry of Defence - Official Liquidator & Receiver - Bankrupt stock - General & Trade - HM Customs & Excise - Antique & Collectibles - Wine - Jewellery - Motor - Property - Executor sales of deceased estates - and more besides. We also cover internet auctions.

Send for a RISK-FREE TRIAL ISSUE

We'll be pleased to send you a trial issue of Government Auction News which is packed not just with auction listings but also features, news, tips, articles, advice and investigative reports. Take up our offer and you'll save £20 in your first year. You will be covered by our 30 day no-quibble money-back guarantee.

Do not confuse us with other titles - there is only one Government Auction News as featured by The Sunday Times, The Independent, BBC Radio, and many more.

Thanks to the likes of the Pink Panther films, Peter Sellers was one of our best-loved stars. But there was a serious side to this comic genius

Dark side of the Goon

HAS THERE EVER BEEN a more prodigiously talented British film star than Peter Sellers? Or one who made so many bad films? Or seemed offscreen to specialise in the role of Miserable So and So, despite relationships with the likes of the beautiful Britt Ekland?

His greatest comic legacy may be the bumbling Inspector Clouseau, whose French accent is impenetrable even to the other French characters in the films. He first played Clouseau in The Pink Panther in 1963 and the character never worked without him. Does anyone remember the Clouseau films with Alan Arkin, Roger Moore (!) and Roberto Benigni in variations on the role?

Sellers did richer work in two masterpieces by Stanley Kubrick. In Lolita, he plays Clare Quilty, a master-of-disguise playwright who plays ping-pong with his murderer and does a series of different characters to give James Mason a hard time. In Dr Strangelove, he plays three roles – a British Air Force officer, an ineffectual US president and the wheelchair-bound mad scientist of the title ('Mein Fuhrer, I can walk'). Here, Sellers' talent for funny voices and pratfall runs wild, but the context is serious enough for Quilty and Strangelove to be terrifying.

During one of Strangelove's struggles with his artificial arm, the actor Peter Bull, glowering as the Russian Ambassador, struggles to suppress a laugh, but Sellers is so magnetic that it takes many viewings to notice Bull's corpsing.

He began in the 1950s, with dozens of voices on The Goon Show and character roles in gentle comedies, playing a fresh-faced teddy boy in The Ladykillers and a whiskery old man in The Smallest Show on Earth.

Sellers had his first multiple role in The Mouse that Roared, created another character who lingers in popular memory, bolshie shop steward Fred Kite ('All out brothers') in I'm All Right Jack, and invented a caricature Indian accent opposite Sophia Loren in The Millionairess (and a novelty single, Goodness Gracious Me). Around the time of the hugely rewatchable crime comedies (Two-Way Stretch, The Wrong Arm of the Law), he played a serious gangster role in Never Let Go, but he never went there again, though he did manage semi-serious work playing repressed fellows in Hoffman and Being There.

After The Goon Show, he did lasting work in audio comedy, with still-priceless sketches (Balham – Gateway to the South) and comic songs (Bangers and Mash).

After What's New Pussycat?, 'international' roles and a swinging jet-set life ensued: he was part of the party in fab, groovy, star-studded middle-aged freak-out pictures like Casino Royale, After the Fox, The World of Henry Orient, I Love You, Alice B Toklas! and The Magic Christian (which he co-scripted). He was a 1960s face, often seen behind shades, sporting a kaftan and beads and pretending to dodge the paparazzi (he was personally an avid photographer).

In the 1970s, Sellers declined with weak Pink Panther sequels, cameos (Queen Victoria in The Great McGonagall) and outright duds (The Prisoner of Zenda). Not to mention health problems and private regrets:

he turned down the role of the Nazi playwright in The Producers, but came to obsess over this bad decision – and once appeared on Michael Parkinson's show doing an interview consisting largely of recitals from the film's script.

Like many others, from John Wayne (The Shootist) to Boris Karloff (Targets), he was lucky enough to have a return to form late in his career, with a performance as good as anything he had ever done as the blank-minded gardener in Being There – though he also squeezed out another loser (The Fiendish Plot of Fu Manchu) before succumbing to a heart attack at the age of 54. He was so good at disappearing into characters that you sometimes suspect that the quiet, melancholy Being There man, whose simplemindedness is mistaken for profundity, was the closest he could bear to playing the real Sellers on screen. cg

An Unbelievable Golfing Breakthrough

The New Pro-Golf Range Finder could give you the biggest improvement to your game you ever dreamed of!

*You'll never have to guess
the distance of the hole, or guess what iron to use,
or drop into that hidden bunker again, saving you valuable shots every game*

An incredible golfing breakthrough. The light-weight, compact Pro-Golf Range Finder accurately tells you how far away the hole is. Is it 160 yards? 200? 240? There will be no more guessing. It measures the distance from the bottom to the top of the flag, and immediately tells you the accurate distance. No more guessing what iron to use.

At its heart is a powerful 8 x magnification precision telescope. It means you see the green and flag with the view of 25 yards, when you're standing 200 yards away! This allows you to choose the best angle to attack the green, missing hidden (to the naked eye) obstacles, and saving 1 perhaps 2 shots per hole.

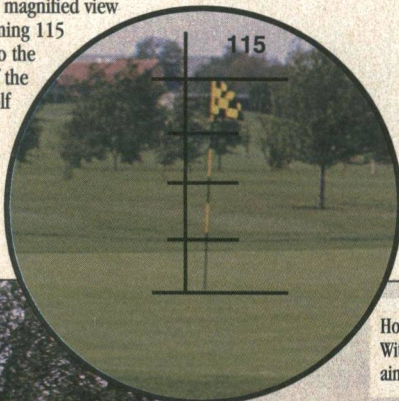

Taking America by storm no golfer today should be playing without this incredible piece of equipment. It has quality stamped all over it, from the precision optics, to the rugged stainless steel and shock-proof silicon construction, right through to the beautiful presentation case in which it comes.

Be the talk of the clubhouse, place your order today. At just £39.95 you'll have your money's worth after just one round. Plus, if you buy two we offer you a further discount on the second range finder of £10.

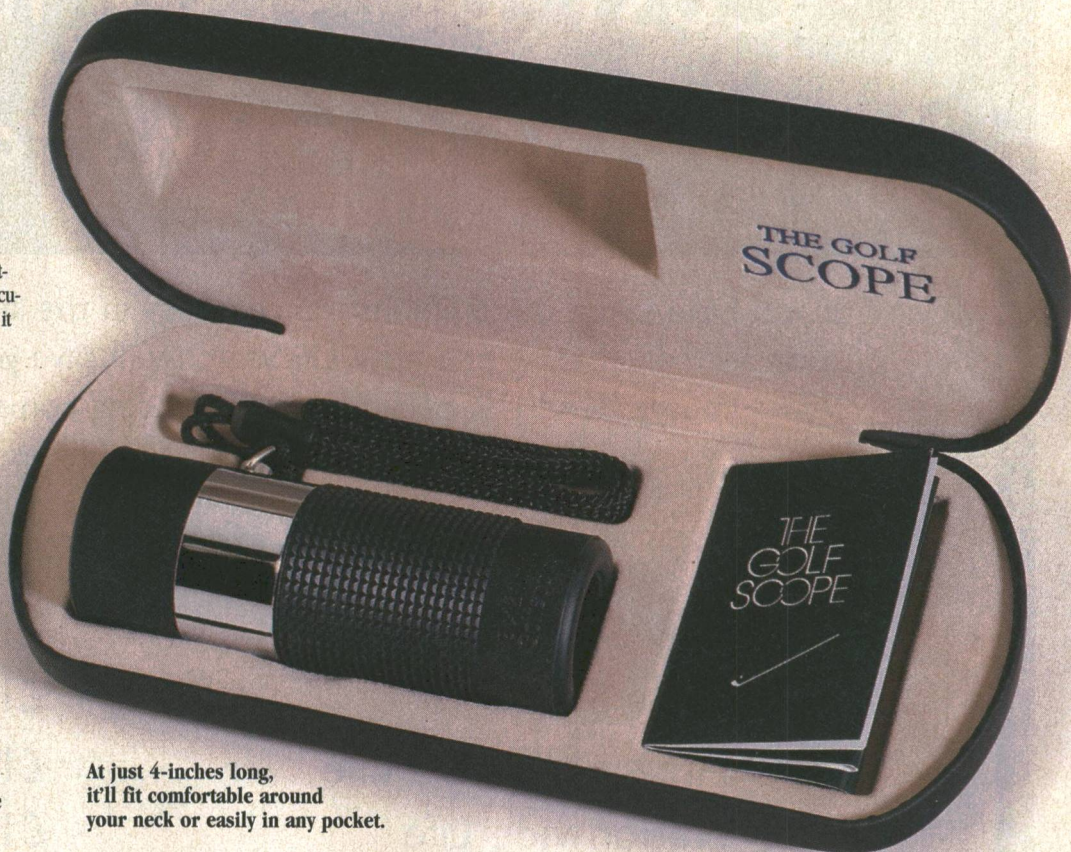

Please fill in the coupon or call our friendly orderline number below. We are open from 8.30am to 9pm Mon-Sun. We accept Mastercard, VISA, Switch or cheque. Please remember if you are not entirely satisfied with any goods we offer you a full 30-days refund guarantee.*

The normal view below, and the 8 x magnified view confirming 115 yards to the hole of the Pro-Golf Range Finder

How far? 140 yards? 100? 80? what iron 4? 6? 7?
With the Pro-Golf Range Finder no guessing - 115 yards, aim straight, use 7 iron, save 1 or 2 shots. Simple.

At just 4-inches long, it'll fit comfortable around your neck or easily in any pocket.

11 reasons why every golfer should own a Pro-Golf Range Finder

1. Stop guessing the distance to the hole. The Range Finder accurately tells you.
2. You'll always be able to select the right iron, saving 1-2 shots per hole.
3. At less than 4-inches it'll slip into any pocket with ease.
4. Impact-resistant housing will give your new Range Finder years of protection.
5. Non-slip, sure-grip, rubberised exterior make sure the Range Finder stays firmly rooted in your hand, even playing in the wet.
6. Superior laser-cut highly polished, multi-coated optics give outstanding brightness, clarity and performance.
7. Your new scores will be the talk of the clubhouse, and your golfing pals will soon want their own Range Finder.
8. With the extremely powerful 8 x magnification you'll spot hidden bunkers and obstacles not possible with the human eye, allowing you to pick the best route to the green, saving valuable shots.
9. The new Pro-Golf Range Finder allows you to concentrate on your swing not having to guess distances, clubs or the right line.
10. In poor weather it can be almost impossible to accurately judge the distance to the hole. The Range Finder tells you accurately whatever the conditions.
11. Taking the US golfing world by storm, no serious golfer should be without a Pro-Golf Range Finder in his armoury.

FRENCH TEST

Tim Henman's history in the French Open isn't the most impressive, but, with a new coach by his side, Britain's Number One has high hopes this year. Interview: Ross Biddiscombe

THE FRENCH OPEN – PARADISE for the world's clay court tennis experts – has been anything but pleasant for Britain's top player over the past few years. Tim Henman may be a star in this year's ATP Tour Champions Race, but a little red dust on his shoes at Roland Garros rarely does anything to advance his cause. Henman will certainly be hoping that he progresses further than the third round this year – something he has failed to do in the last three attempts.

For each of the last two years, for instance, Henman has begun confidently following creditable performances in warm-up tournaments such as Monte Carlo. He began with seemingly easy wins over real outsiders, but his first true clay court test finds him wanting. Last year, he lost 7-5 in the fifth to the relatively unheralded Guillermo Canas of Argentina, after a couple of easy wins over Sjeng Schalken and Tomas Behrend. But then the South American was brought up to play on clay court surfaces, unlike Henman.

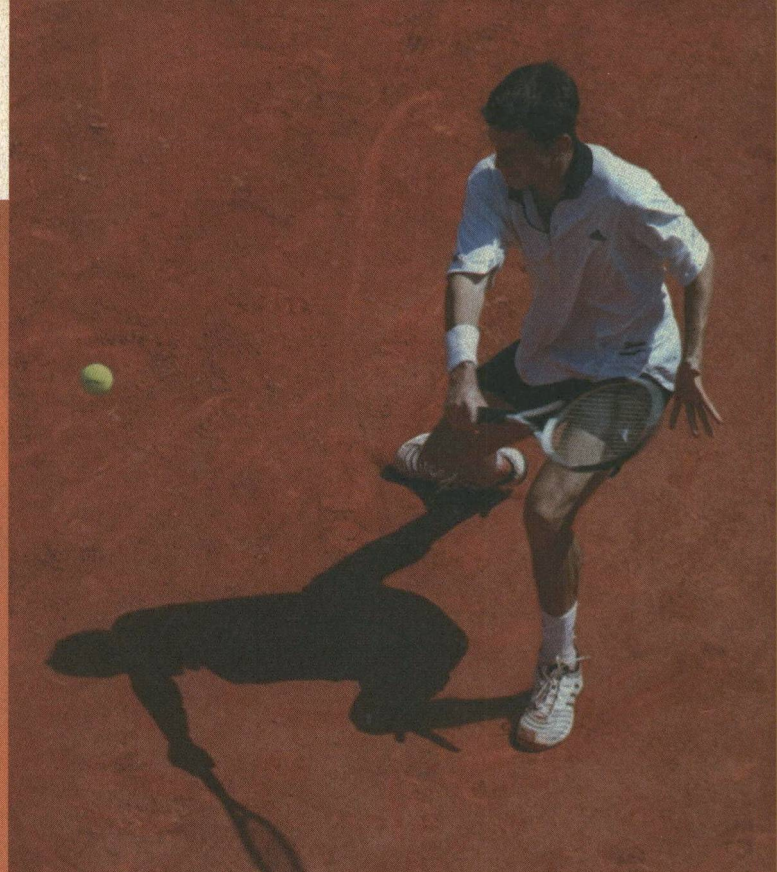

'We don't have many clay courts in this country, and those that we do have are only a few years old. When I was learning the game I didn't get to play much on clay. It's such a unique surface and to get really good on it you need to put in a lot of time and develop your game around it,' says Henman who, of course, learned an attacking game from early days on the much faster grass courts.

Last year's French Open was Henman's first Grand Slam tournament without a coach, after his long-time partnership with the popular David Felgate ended. Another Wimbledon semi-final disappointment followed before American Larry Stefanki was brought on board. And experts believe his presence may provide Henman with his best shot ever at advancing into week two of the French Open this time round. After all, Stefanki worked with Russia's Yevgeny Kafelnikov – a winner in Paris in 1996 – and his breadth of ATP Tour knowledge is hard to beat.

It's these kinds of advantages that can make such a difference to a player like Henman, who now believes progress on clay could be just around the corner.

'Mentally, I'm more mature and experienced, and technically I'm working on some minor changes with Larry that I think will help take my game to the next level. So I firmly believe the best is yet to come.'

That next level started to emerge with Henman's excellent start to the 2002 season, which

I'm raring to go. Clay obviously isn't my best surface, but it's a great challenge and, if I play smart, I can still get some good results saw him win the International Series in Adelaide, Australia, and then reach only his second ever Masters Series Final in Indian Wells, California, where he was beaten by Lleyton Hewitt. Henman's year has been more consistent than ever, a fact that saw him either first or second in the Champions Race for the first few months of the season. A neck injury brought a temporary halt to proceedings in March, but the 27-year-old is convinced 2002 – with Stefanki on board from the very start for the first time – will be a breakthrough season.

'Each year I've felt that I've improved my clay court game and, having worked so hard over the past few months with Larry, I feel this year can definitely be my best. I'm really enjoying my tennis and I'm raring to go. Clay obviously isn't my best surface, but it's a great challenge and, if I play smart, I can still get some good results.'

For an attacking player like Henman, the clay of Roland Garros requires extra patience that should, in turn, cut out the large number of unforced errors that have plagued him in this tournament. Yet, with Wimbledon coming so quickly after the French Open, it is easy to see which one of the two tournaments is most on his mind.

'My main goal for the year is to win Wimbledon – that's been a dream of mine since I was a boy,' Henman freely admits.

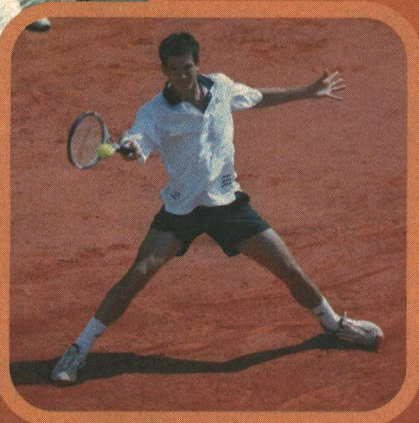

Perhaps childhood will be on Henman's mind this year in a different way after the announcement that his wife, Lucy, is expecting their first child. It's time this dad-to-be got that first Grand Slam under his belt and, who knows, it may give him just the kind of incentive he needs in Paris. cq

COUNTDOWN TO CARDIFF

As London rivals Arsenal and Chelsea prepare for their showdown in Cardiff, Sylvain Wiltord is confident the trophy will be on its way to N5 – but not if former Gunner Emmanuel Petit can help it. Interviews: Neil Martin and Chris Hatherall

LIVE
FA Cup Final

Sky Sports 2
Saturday 4th
12noon

ARSENAL MIGHT have already gained some revenge in the FA Cup this season, but Sylvain Wiltord insists it won't mean a thing unless they go on and lift the famous trophy in the Millennium Stadium.

The Gunners are still smarting over last season's 2-1 defeat to Liverpool, having completely dominated the match for 82 minutes until Michael Owen single-handedly won the cup for the Merseysiders.

Some retribution was handed out when Arsenal beat Liverpool in this season's fourth round – a victory that saw the players celebrate as wildly as their opponents had done in Cardiff.

But the north Londoners are determined to completely wipe the memory of last May's final by finishing the job this time around and claiming the trophy.

It really does seem to be a mission that Arsène Wenger's men simply will not let themselves fail to complete, as French striker Wiltord confirms.

'After losing the final last year, we really want to lift the cup this time,' he admits. Indeed, such is the confidence in the Arsenal camp that Wiltord says the players have refused to entertain the possibility that they might fail at the Millennium Stadium.

'No, we haven't thought about losing at all. We've kept a positive attitude because we wanted to get back to the final. And this time when we go to Cardiff we want to win – that's the motivation and the ambition.

'We've had the confidence in the team to do well again this season and the feeling is definitely there that we can go on and win it.'

And this time the former Deportivo La Coruña and Bordeaux man will be hoping to make his mark on the game and get his name on the score sheet.

Wiltord may have netted six goals in his first four FA Cup games for Arsenal in last year's competition, but his touch deserted him in the final as the Gunners failed to convert a whole host of opportunities to kill off Liverpool when they had the chance.

However, the bitter taste of defeat has only strengthened Wiltord's understanding of how important this tournament is. And, while it took an unfortunate own goal from Middlesbrough's Gianluca Festa in the semi-final to confirm Arsenal's place in Cardiff, Wiltord has been influential in helping the team get there, having scored two goals against Gillingham in the fifth round and played superbly in the 3-0 win over Newcastle in the quarter-final replay.

'It's a great competition and I love playing in it,' he says. 'The cup in France is a big competition, but the atmosphere in England is so much different and more intense,' he says.

'It's important in France, but it doesn't have the same build up that the FA Cup has in England.

'It's also a hard competition to win. I remember our game against Carlisle last year, which was my first game in the FA Cup. They are just a small team but it was difficult, and so close and we only won 1-0.

'It was good for me last year because I scored a lot of goals and I know that it is a very big competition in England and very important.'

EMMANUEL PETIT could be forgiven for getting a little nostalgic when he walks out for Chelsea in the FA Cup final just four years after helping Arsenal to the double.

But strangely enough, the French World Cup winner is adamant he won't be thinking of the past as Chelsea aim to win their first trophy under manager Claudio Ranieri.

A lot of water has passed under the bridge since Petit lined up for the Gunners against Newcastle at Wembley and watched Nicolas Anelka and Marc Overmars clinch a memorable 2-0 victory.

Since then there have been four barren trophyless seasons for Arsenal for a start. And some say Petit has never really recreated the glory days of 1998 on a personal level, either.

Now, however, he has a chance to put the miserable memories of a frustrating spell at Barcelona behind him and guide Chelsea to their first silverware under manager Claudio Ranieri.

'I set my goals very high in my career,' he says. 'I want to win things with Chelsea and it is important to think always about the future.'

'The stories at Arsenal – these things are in the past. I am a Chelsea player now and it is history. You have to let go. When I played at Arsenal with Barcelona, for instance, I realised maybe I was too emotional going back to Highbury. But it was easier the second time with Chelsea, even though the Arsenal fans will always have a place in my heart.

'This sort of thing is part of life. When you are married and you are divorced you don't have to hate your wife because of that. And Arsenal, for me, is a bit like an ex-wife. But I have a new life.'

Winning the FA Cup a second time would certainly be a key moment in Petit's career, because not so long ago there were fears he would never recreate the form of his Arsenal days – especially when he was sitting on the bench at Barça.

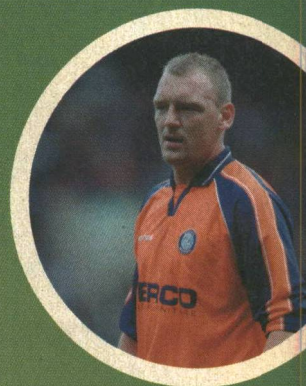

'It was a difficult time for me,' he reflects. 'I don't regret going to Barça because I don't know of a player who wouldn't want to go there – they are one of the biggest clubs in the world. But I do regret what happened there. There were too many people who thought they had power in the club.'

'I am very happy to be at Chelsea now. They have not won the same trophies as Barcelona, and they don't have the history. But history and success don't count for much when you're not happy.'

'There is no undercurrent at this club. I enjoy the honesty here and it would be fantastic to win a trophy for the manager and for the fans. That is why the FA Cup is so important for us.'

THE ROAD TO THE FA CUP FINAL.

Words: Simon Johnson

Andy Ramell helped save Wycombe's first-round blushes

FA Cup First Round

16.11.01

Hayes 3 Wycombe 4

Wycombe were almost on the receiving end of the sort of shock defeat they inflicted upon Leicester last season when an embarrassing first-round exit at Conference side Hayes looked likely. But they recovered from a 2-1 deficit to claim their place in the second round, thanks to two each from Darren Currie and Andy Rammell.

FA Cup Second Round

9.12.01

Canvey Island 1 Northampton 0

Neil Gregory made history as his fine strike dumped Second Division Northampton out of the competition and sent Canvey into the Third Round for the first time. The Ryman Premier outfit were too good for Northampton despite three divisions separating the sides, and they deserved to pull off the shock of the round.

FA Cup Third Round

6.1.02

Cardiff City 2 Leeds United 1

Scott Young's winner just four minutes from time ensured big spenders Leeds would end another season without a trophy. But the Welsh side's 'giant killing' was overshadowed by crowd trouble during and after the match.

FA Cup Fourth Round

26.1.02

Middlesbrough 2 Manchester United 0

Middlesbrough boss Steve McClaren bit the hand that used to feed him by guiding his team to victory over his former club and cup favourites United. Noel Whelan scores with five minutes remaining before Andy Campbell sealed the shock win.

FA Cup Fifth Round

17.2.02

Newcastle United 1 Manchester City 0

Kevin Keegan enjoyed a hero's welcome at St James's Park as he returned to the club he graced as both a player and a manager – despite being in charge of the opposition, who ultimately lost out.

FA Cup Sixth Round

Tottenham 0 Chelsea 4

Revenge was so sweet for Chelsea, who just six weeks before had suffered a 5-1 humiliation at Tottenham which denied them a place in the League Cup Final. The Blues' determination was all too evident and Spurs were swept aside as William Gallas, Graeme Le Saux and a brace from Eidur Gudjohnsen ensured they made amends.

SUPERBIKES

World Superbikes Championship

British Eurosport, Sunday 26th, 9.30am, 12noon, 3.00pm

There's been a hint of another upsurge in British involvement in the World Superbikes Championship this year. Any disappointment about the retirement of Carl Fogarty as a racer was overwhelmed by the setting up of his own racing team. Today's leg of the 2002 championship at Silverstone may be a little early for Foggy's team to compete, but British No 1 Neil Hodgson (right) will keep the Union Jack flying against Aussie world champion Troy Bayliss, who began the season in impressive form.

CYCLING

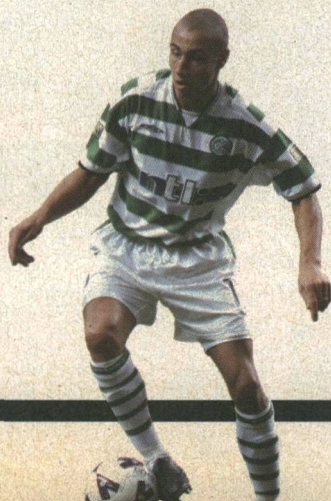

Tour of Italy

British Eurosport, Sunday 12th, 3.30pm
The Tour of Italy has a decidedly pan-European feel to it. It got under way yesterday in Groningen in Holland with the opening time trial, and today moves into another country, Germany, with the first stage proper over 215 kilometres to Munster. Belgium, France and Luxembourg will also welcome the Tour over the next three weeks before the finish in Milan, when natives such as last year's winner Gilberto Simoni (above) should come into their own.

FOOTBALL

Scottish Cup Final

Sky Sports 1, Saturday 4th, 2.00pm
The fight for the bragging rights within Scottish football has been a lopsided affair recently in favour of Celtic, who have won almost everything at their leisure in the last two seasons. However, today's Scottish Cup Final gives Rangers another chance to restore some of the balance. The Gers' new manager, Alex McLeish, has not had much time to stamp his personality on the team, while counterpart Martin O'Neill just keeps asking for more of the same from hitman Henrik Larsson (below).

CRICKET

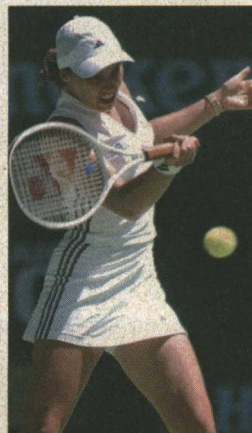

England v Sri Lanka

Sky Sports 1, Thursday 30th, 10.30am and 1.30pm
Not so long ago, a Test Series against Sri Lanka was mere batting practice for an England cricket team. But not any more. The Sri Lankans became World Cup winners in the Nineties and have stunned a few major nations in the five-day version of the game since then. It means that the men from Asia are now considered serious opposition for any country, so Nasser Hussain (above) will want his men in top form if England are to maintain recent Test progress.

TENNIS

WTA Tennis

British Eurosport, Monday 13th – Sunday 19th
Every Grand Slam event has a key warm-up tournament, and this week Rome plays host to the pre-French Open championship for the women's tour. The favourites in this week include the usual suspects, such as Jennifer Capriati, and Martina Hingis (below), who should also dominate in Paris. But last year's clay court surprise in Rome, Yugoslavia's Jelena Dokic, cannot be discounted. Dokic, at No 14, was the lowest seed to win this title in 71 years.

ALAN CURBISHLEY

As a testing campaign draws to a close, Alan warns his players to rest while they can during the summer, as a tough pre-season training regime awaits them.
Illustration: Chris Hogg

FOOTBALL SEEMS TO BE going through a worrying time at present. What I find difficult to comprehend is the speed at which this gloom has descended on the game; only eight months ago everything was going well and there was a great sense of optimism. But most businesses have their ups and downs, and football has been very prosperous for the last three or four years, so perhaps it was only to be expected that there would be a downward turn.

It has to be said that few Premiership clubs have made themselves significantly stronger with the TV money, as most of that has gone on players' wages. We at Charlton have been lucky in that we've managed to build a new stand and so have increased our capacity and fan base, but there aren't many clubs that can honestly say that after five or six years in the Premier League, they have progressed as much as they would have liked.

I'd like to strengthen the squad in the summer, although I don't have as much money as I thought I'd have. I can't really complain, as there are some clubs who have no funds at all to purchase new players. But then I think it's going to be difficult to buy and sell anyway. First of all we have a transfer window coming up that we have to operate within, and then, because of the feelings of uncertainty surrounding the Nationwide League, there's probably not going to be much movement there.

This has been by far the hardest season I've experienced in my 11 years at Charlton, and that's because we've been wracked by injuries from day one. After our excellent campaign last year, we were given a stern reminder this time of how tough the Premiership is. And we were served up a punishing wake-up call over Easter.

I was very disappointed with the way the Easter football programme was worked out, and not just because we suffered defeats to Liverpool and Arsenal. To have international matches on the Wednesday before the Easter fixtures was just ludicrous. Our international players arrived back at the training ground on Good Friday morning, and the team trained for an hour before setting off for Liverpool, who we played on the Saturday. We journeyed back from Merseyside on Saturday night, crammed in an hour's training on the Sunday and then we had to face a supremely confident Arsenal on Bank Holiday Monday. That sort of testing schedule is just not conducive to presenting a good Premiership product.

The plus points that have emerged from such a demanding season are that the squad I was left with after the injuries had taken their toll stood up admirably, and our young players have been brilliant when called upon.

No doubt those players who aren't off to the World Cup will be looking forward to a well-earned rest this summer. But we can't afford to let them get too relaxed.

We give all our lads a fitness test before they set off and tell them what sort of weight we want them to be when they come back. We also give them a fitness programme to follow – and we expect them to come back in shape. It's a decent break this summer for those players not on international duty, so they've got to make sure they get their rest and come back prepared for pre-season training.

I wasn't happy with the fitness of some of our players last pre-season. I don't know if it had anything to do with complacency because it was our second season in the Premiership, but from 9 July last year, which was the day we resumed training, I was not happy at all. They won't be making the same mistake next season – we will be hitting the ground running. And I won't be allowing any of the World Cup players any extra time off, we'll all come back together.

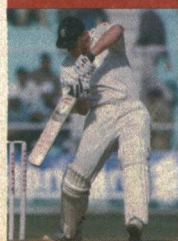

So I look forward to next season at Charlton Athletic. Every year we've made more progress, but there's still much for me to do here. There may come a day when I drive to training and I don't have the enthusiasm I once had, or the fans might let me know that it's time for me to move on. But at the moment, I'm very happy here, and my immediate plans are to ensure Charlton remain a Premiership club. cg
